

fashion

IMAGES BY CANDACE ANN PHOTOGRAPHY

MODELS: Jayna And Kayla Friesen

FORM

+

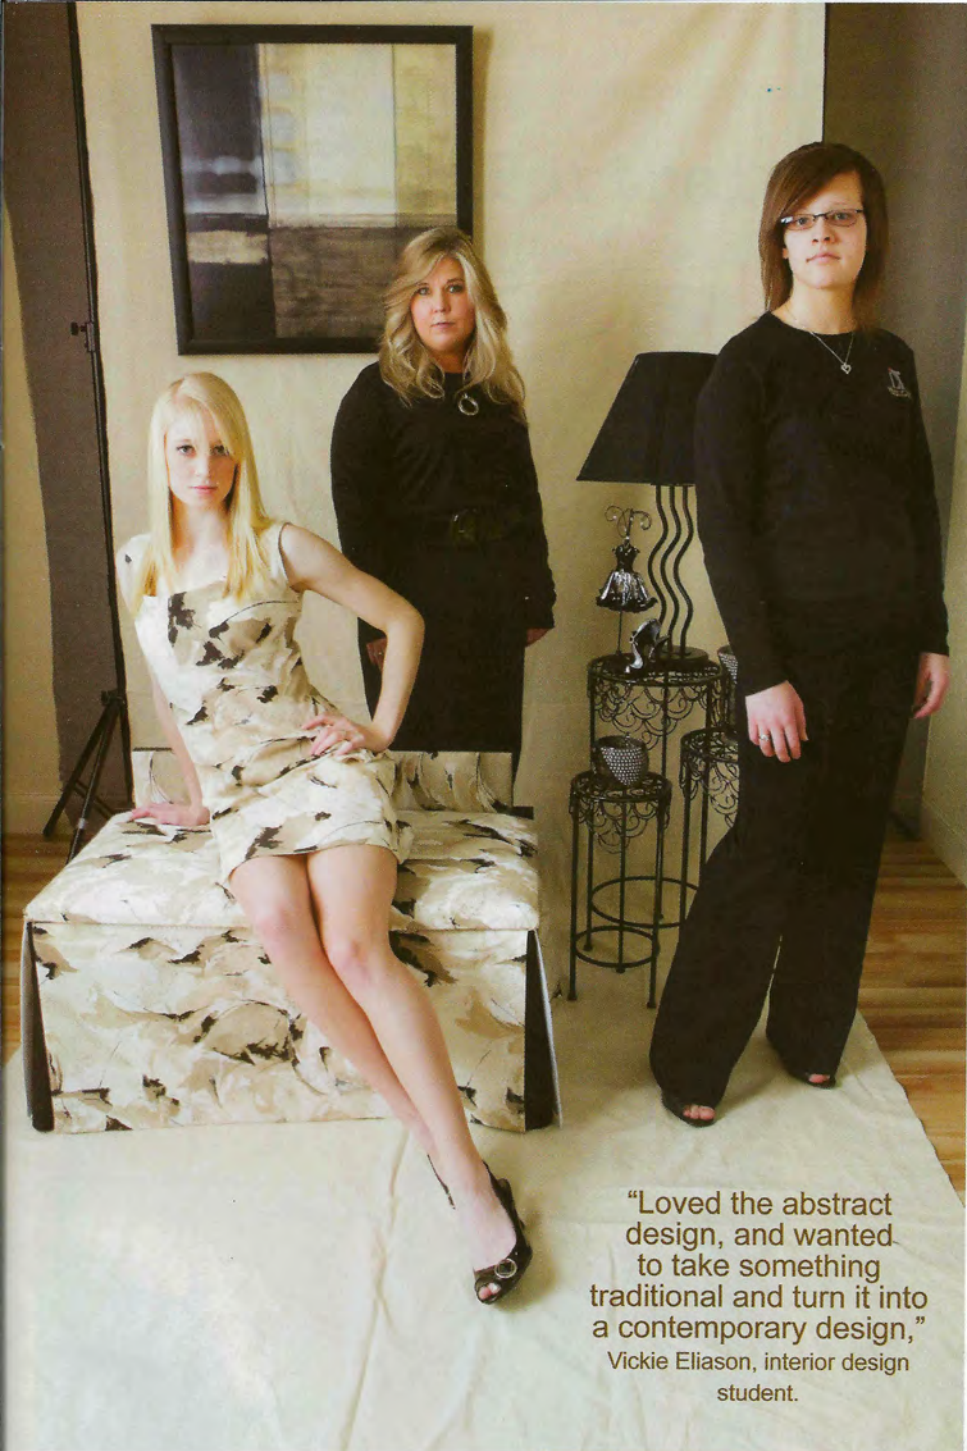

FASHION

MEETS FUNCTION

"I wanted it to still look old, but with a new, fresh life," Jenna Hartmann, interior design student.

The interior and fashion design students at the Institute of Design & Technology of SD are having a gallery and fashion runway show May 26 at the Museum of Visual Materials. The event will showcase the students' portfolios that celebrate the blending the function of interior with the form of fashion. 605 readers get a special preview of a portion of what will be seen that evening with chairs created by the interior design students that inspired garments made by the fashion students. The gallery opens at 6 p.m. and the fashion show begins at 7:30 p.m. For ticket information, call (605) 275-9728.

“Loved the abstract design, and wanted to take something traditional and turn it into a contemporary design,”

Vickie Eliason, interior design student.

Dress by Melissa Van Beek.

Chair design and staging by Kathryn Mehlhaff.

"A simple A-line jacket with a wild side,"

Liz Karr, fashion design student.

"The chair is very elegant to match a Victorian-like style,"

Kathryn Mehlhaff, interior design student.

Corset and skirt by Andrea Jacobson.

Facebook
one of Derrick Karsky
or email me at derrickkarsky@agency.com

FARMERS

Derrick Karsky - Agency Producer
Dean Karsky Insurance Agency Inc.
2500 W 48th St Ste 1103
Sioux Falls SD 57102

“Contemporary
geometric flair,” Amy Evans, interior design
student.

Skirt by Liz Karr.

To see more designs, visit 605magazine.com!

Want to model for 605? E-mail a headshot and full-body shot to contact@605magazine.com.